The leaves are falling, the Halloween carnival is in full swing, and someone is robbing the residents of Branson Falls, Utah. There is no rhyme or reason to the crimes, but after an elderly widow is targeted, the town is up in arms—literally, and everyone is pointing fingers straight at the owners of the new tattoo parlor. AF. Branson Tribune editor, Kate Saxee, isn't sure who is to blame, but she's not willing to let an angry mob run the tattoo shop out of town without investigating—and she's not the only one with questions that need answers. Drake and Hawke, both serious relationship material, are very interested in who has been avoiding them for weeks. Kate's love life and the robberies aren't the only things on Kate's plate. She's also being stalked by a costume-wearing man helping Ella with her new online auction hobby, failing to avoid The Ladies, and trying to manage her mom's most recent antics involving an angry goat named Humperdinck. Between all the chaos, Kate discovers there is more to the robberies than meets the eye, and if she doesn't figure it all out fast, someone is going to be dead AF.

A love so strong, even eternity can't separate them. Evie Starling has lived a relatively uneventful life hanging out with friends, gossiping about boys and her 1966 mustang. All of that changes when she moves to Gunnison Colorado to start college and meets two mysterious men. For centuries Alex Night Stone have yearned for Evie- but the each have their own reasons for wanting to be with her. When both men claim to be her soulmate and tell her about unbelievable past, Evie learns that she's not the person she thought she was. Soon, Evie finds herself in the middle of an age-old battle between the Am Society- the soul protectors, and the Daevos Resistance- the soul destroyers. With a past she doesn't understand and a future rife with danger, Evie has to choose who she can trust. But Alex and Emil aren't the only ones who want Evie, and her soul is about to become the rope in an eternal tug-of war.

"Wonderfully talented writing; funny." —Orson Scott Card, New York Times Bestselling Author of Ender's Game When eleven-year-old Guster Johnsonville and his mother's casserole for the umpteenth time, she takes him into the city of New Orleans to find him something to eat. There, in a dark, abandoned corner city, they meet a dying pastry maker. In his last breath, he entrusts them with a secret: an ancient recipe that makes the most delicious taste the world has ever known—a taste that will change the fate of humanity forever. Forced to flee by a cult of murderous chefs, the Johnsonvilles embark on a perilous journey through ruins, faraway jungles and forgotten caves. Along the way, they discover the truth: Guster is an Evertaster—a kid so picky that nothing but the legend will save him from starvation. With the sinister chefs hot on Guster's heels and the chefs' reign of terror spreading, Guster and his family must find the taste before it's too late. "Sidwell is a talented comedian, and that is certainly reflected in his writing. The characters are quirky and likable." —Deseret Magazine "The most original, well-crafted and imaginative MG stories I've come across in a long time." —Word Spelunking book review "We were laughing by the end and gasping by the third as we followed the pickiest eater in the world. . . . If there's a kid in your life—get them this book, and read it with them! You will miss out!" —Rachelle Christensen, Rachelle's Writing Spot, Author of Caller ID

Pagan suckled in a creed outworn:So might I, standing on this pleasant lea,Have glimpses that would make me less forlorn:Have sight of Proteus rising from the sea:Or hear old Triton blow his wreathed horn. William Wordsworth [1770-1850]MOTHER NATURETHE BOOK OF THE WORLD Of this fair volume which we World do name,if we the sheets and leaves could turn with care,Of him who it corrects, and did it frame,We clear might read the art and wisdom rare:Fi power which wildest powers doth tame,His providence extending everywhere,His justice which proud rebels doth not spare,In every page, no, period of time same.But silly we, like foolish children, rest,Well pleased with colored vellum, leaves of gold,Fair dangling ribbons, leaving what is best,On the great Writings ne'er taking hold:Or, if by chance we stay our minds on aught,It is some picture on the margin wrought. William Drummond [1585-1649]NATURE The bubbling brook doth leap when I come by,Because my feet find measure with its call:The birds know when the friend they love is nigh,For I am known to them, both small.The flower that on the lonely hillside growsExpects me there when spring its bloom has given:And many a tree and bush my wanderings knows the clouds and silent stars of heaven:For he who with his Maker walks aright,Shall be their lord as Adam was before:His ear shall catch each sound with delight,Each object wear the dress that then it wore:And he, as when erect in soul he stood,Hear from his Father's lips that all is good. Jones Very [1813-1880]COMPENSATION In that new world toward which our feet are set,Shall we find aught to make our hearts forgetEarth's homely joys and her hours of bliss?Has heaven a spell divine enough for this?For who the pleasure of the spring shall tellWhen on the leafless stalk the brown buds swell,When grass brightens and the days grow long,And little birds break out in rippling song? O sweet the dropping eve, the blush of morn,The starlit sky, the rustling corn,The soft airs blowing from the freshening seas,The sunflecked shadow of the stately trees,The mellow thunder and the lulling rain,The warm, delicious summer rain,When the grass brightens and the days grow long,And little birds break out in rippling song! We are delighted to publish this classic book as part of our extensive Classic Library collection. Many of the books in our collection have been out of print for decades, and therefore have not been accessible to the general public. The aim of our publishing program is to facilitate rapid access to this vast reservoir of literature, and our view is that this is a significant work, which deserves to be brought back into print after many decades. The contents of the vast majority of titles in the Classic Library have been scanned from original works. To ensure a high quality product, each title has been meticulously hand curated by our staff. Our philosophy has been guided by a desire to provide the reader with a book that is as close as possible to ownership of the original work. We hope that you will enjoy this wonderful classic work, and that it becomes an enriching experience.

In the tradition of Octavia Butler, here is radical self-help, society-help, and planet-help to shape the futures we want. Change is constant. The world, our minds and our bodies are in a constant state of flux. They are a stream of ever-mutating, emergent patterns. Rather than steel ourselves against such change, Strategy teaches us to map and assess the swirling structures and to read them as they happen, all the better to shape that which ultimately shapes us and politically. A resolutely materialist spirituality based equally on science and science fiction: a wild feminist and afro-futurist ridel adrienne maree brown editor of Octavia's Brood: Science Fiction from Social Justice Movements, is a social justice facilitator, healer, and doula living in Detroit.

This book presents a detailed account of authenticity in the visual arts from the Paleolithic to the postmodern. The restoration of works of art can alter our perception of authenticity and may result in the creation of fakes and forgeries. These interactions set the stage for the subject of this book, which initiates the conservation perspective, then continues with a detailed discussion of notions of authenticity and philosophical background. There is a disputed territory between those who view the present-day cult of authenticity as fundamentally flawed and those who have analyzed its impact upon different cultural movements operating across performative, contested, and fragmented ground. The book discusses several case studies where the ideas of conceptual authenticity, material authenticity, and material authenticity can be incorporated into an informative discourse about art from the ancient to the contemporary, illuminating our

The Devil Has Tattoos

Winner of the Man Asian Literary Prize, an "elegant and haunting novel of war, art and memory" (The Independent) from the critically acclaimed author of Gift of Rain. Malaya, 1951. Yun Ling Teoh, the scarred lone survivor of a brutal Japanese wartime camp, seeks solace among the jungle-fringed tea plantations of the Cameron Highlands. There she discovers Yugiri, the only Japanese garden in Malaya, and its owner and creator, the enigmatic Aritomo, exiled former gardener of the emperor of Japan. Despite her hatred of the Japanese, Yun Ling seeks to engage Aritomo to create a garden in memory of her sister, who died in the war. Aritomo refuses but agrees to accept Yun Ling as his apprentice "until the monsoon comes." Then she can design a garden for herself. As the months pass, Yun Ling finds herself intimately drawn to the gardener and his art, while all around them a communist guerilla war rages. But the Garden of Evening Mists remains a place of mystery. Who is Aritomo and how did he come to leave Japan? And is the real story of how Yun Ling managed to survive the war perhaps the darkest secret of all?

An ancient symbol was suddenly used in the design of an entire temple. Renown scholar Hugh Nibley later identified it as the "Seal of Melchizedek." Other authors and bloggers started exploring the history and meanings of the symbol, which was later added to the Salt Lake City Temple. For the first time in one book, the modern story is uncovered. Learn why the Seal of Melchizedek is finding its way back into contemporary Christian culture, and why Latter-day Saints in general find it so interesting.

"Someone needs to make you come completely undone, Sydney Parker." His tongue moved slowly over his lips. "That someone is going to be me." Goal-oriented Sydney Parker has never had a problem focusing. She's about to start law school, the first step on her way to the Supreme Court. With no time for relationships, she lives vicariously through her best friend Brynn, who has recently decided to use sex as a research tool. Sydney, however, hasn't been laid in years. Men are a distraction, one Sydney has diligently avoided until Jackson West crashes into her life, and under her hood. The last thing Sydney needs is a hot mechanic on her '69 Camaro. Especially a hot mechanic with eyes like the ocean and lick-me abs, who claims to be better in bed than a werewolf. Jax thinks that's exactly what Sydney needs. But Sydney has goals, and a relationship with the enigmatic Jax would challenge her. Distract her. Tempt her. Sydney is about to find out that temptation is very hard to resist. Due to mature content, this New Adult novel is recommended for readers over 18.
